

Question 8

Answer: True

While each of the rights contained in the Convention apply to all children, whether Aboriginal or not, the Convention on the Rights of the Child was the first human rights treaty to include specific references to Aboriginal children in regards to: access to information and mass media (Article 17), education (Article 29) and culture, religion and language (Article 30).